MANUFACTURING SLABS:

Manufacturing & Techniques
our stash is carried by special lifting equipment and placed on levelled carriage. Post this the wood slabs are cut in full width through the log. Leaving its edge intact during the mining process. The slabs are then placed amongst the same stash trees in order to maintain uniformity while maintaining their distinction.

The Drying Process:

The order to rid the logs of moisture, they are parted at regular intervals, which naturally reduces the stress in the wood.

Tagging , Bagging and Shipping:

Post the book matching process, the slabs are tagged and placed next to their logs or origin, after which they're put on a pallet Which will be loaded into shipping containers.

Slabs designing process:

Some slabs are cut with straight edges while others are cut With waney edges. The braks are either left as they are Or removed depending on the intended look of the slab.

Working with a slab:

As per design specifications, resin is used to either fill A void in the slab or to create new volume dimensions. They can be purely transparent and coloured. Glass inlays can be integrated as well while the Furnishing is done using various types of compounds like water - based oil wax, etc depending on the desired finish, or lacquered with a 2k ply finish.

For product maintenance, we recommend 600 grit Sandpaper. Proceed to apply a thin coat of furniture oil with a soft cloth. While focusing on keeping the Application even.

Use of our slab stash:

Slabs can be utilised for a number of needs Almost anywhere, from homes and offices to restaurants and coffee shops. Go ahead let your imagination run wild.

OUR Slabs USPs:

When its comes to scoring, we harvest trees In the most ethical way possible.

We harvest wood that has been dormant for decades. Unlike new wood, which is harvested hastily and lacks the dense grains and old growth materials that make our stash so unique.

We scour the word for the best score. and our current stash boasts of over 350 slabs varieties.

Kingdom Wood Slabs Policy:

At Kingdom Slabs, we take pride in the unique Construction and finish of our products. Each of our custom orders is inspected before It leaves the factory as the only imperfections we tolerate are natural ones.

All custom orders have a 3 cm production Tolerance for width and length. Live edge is a truly edgy design style wherein the natural edge of the wood is incorporated into the designs of the piece in question.
